

SCREENLY

Full Brand & UI Guidelines · v1.0 · September 2026

Record. Explain. Share. Effortlessly.

Lettermark S — a flowing ribbon representing motion, capture, creativity and seamless recording.

Brand identity

The S ribbon is the core recognition asset. Its flowing form represents motion and seamless capture; the recording dot adds a simple, memorable recording cue.

Logo rules

Use primary, compact, icon-only, dark and monochrome lockups according to surface. Maintain clear space equal to at least the recording-dot diameter. Never distort, rotate, arbitrarily recolor, outline or decorate the mark.

Color system

Electric Blue #3882F6 → Violet #8B5CF6 → Magenta #EC4899 → Coral #FF686B → Amber #F59E0B. Neutrals: Navy #0B1020, Slate #334155, Gray #64748B, Silver #CBD5E1, Light #F1F5F9, White #FFFFFF.

Typography

SF Pro Display / SF Pro Text are primary. Inter is the cross-platform fallback. Use bold display hierarchy and readable 17pt body text. Keep UI copy sentence-case.

UI/UX principles

One obvious recording action; progressive disclosure; automatic recovery; calm surfaces; assistive AI; accessible targets; motion that communicates state.

Recording experience

Show screen/camera/mic status clearly. Keep controls discoverable. On failure, preserve the last valid recording segment and provide recovery/export options. Camera mode must provide a visible preview.

AI experience

Prioritize on-device captions, translation, chapters, summaries, key moments, smart zoom and filler/silence detection. AI is opt-in, transparent and visually associated with violet/pink accents and restrained sparkle motifs.

Accessibility

44×44pt minimum targets on iOS, Dynamic Type, VoiceOver labels, sufficient contrast, state communication beyond color, and Reduce Motion support.

Motion

160ms micro-interactions, 240ms standard transitions, 360ms emphasis. Easing: cubic-bezier(.2,.8,.2,1). Avoid bouncy or decorative motion.

Voice & tone

Clear, confident, human and concise. Use direct actions such as “Generate captions” and reassuring states such as “Your recording is ready.”